EVOLUTION AND STRATEGIC DEVELOPMENT OF FAMILY BUSINESSES

A continuing series of educational programs for family business owners

During business expansions and contractions, companies are constantly evolving their strategic planning. How do family businesses survive and evolve successfully during periods of economic growth and/or difficulty while facing a constantly changing market place?

Join the Family Business Association and Suffolk University's Business School at an educational program for family businesses to explore business longevity. The event will include a panel of experts comprised of family business owners who will discuss their approach to achieving success in a constantly changing market place.
